EPISCOPAL DIOCESE HAS EXPANSION FUND

Norfolk, Va.- Bishops of the 117 churches in the Diocese of Southern Virginia participating, solicitation of $1,000,000 is under way in the Episcopal Forward and Advance Fund, Bishop George P. Gunn, General Chairman, announced today.

Report meetings in all parishes in the diocese are scheduled for this month. As figures come into Norfolk fund headquarters, they will be announced in the press. The objectives of the campaign are:

"1) To help new churches or institutions to help themselves in acquiring new buildings;

"2) To help establish churches or institutions to expand or improve existing facilities;

"3) To give help to established parishes in relocation of existing facilities.

"4) To assist in obtaining additional clergy through scholarship support of men in training for the ministry;

"5) To create a revolving fund for the continuation of these aims, and to enable the Diocese to meet future challenges;

"6) To enrich the lives of members of our churches by the realization of the fact that by our united effort we will be enabled to meet our many opportunities."

The need for realization of the entire objective of $1,000,000 is emphasized by the fund campaign leaders, who have pointed out figures which they consider challenging to every communicant in the diocese. Fund headquarters has called attention in the campaign literature to these facts:

"In 1920 the population of Virginia was 2,309,000. Today it is 3,750,000—an increase of 62%. By contrast, there are 18,500 communicants today in the Diocese of Southern Virginia, compared with 13,414 in 1920—a gain of only 38%. In 1920 there were 70 clergymen in the diocese; today 63."

METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING HELD

The 18th annual meeting of the Lynchburg District Woman's Society of Christian Service was held at Fort Hill Methodist Church, in Lynchburg, on April 17, with the president, Mrs. Wm. R. Phelps, of Bedford, presiding.

Important business included the election of several new officers for the new quadrennium who were later installed by the Rev. Dr. John D. Owens, District Superintendent. New officers are: president, Mrs. A. J. Pettyjohn; vice president, Mrs. Julian Adams; recording secretary, Mrs. A. H. Hawkins; secretary of promotion, Mrs. J. Mott Robertson; missionary education, Mrs. John P. Haynes Jr.; student work, Mrs. Monroe Baldwin; cultivation, Mrs. Frank Owens, all of Lynchburg; and supply work, Mrs. J. B. Driskill, of Altavista.

Reports were given by the zone leaders, including Mrs. O. W. Martin, Jr., of Appomattox, and Mrs. J. W. Smith, of Altavista, and Mrs. B. A. Epperson, of Halifax. Mrs. Rice was a unique demonstration of the work of the Society by the secretaries of lines of work, including Mrs. J. N. Jennings, of Appomattox, secretary of youth work.

Miss Betty Fairbanks, missionary on furlough from India, spoke on student work and there was an address by the Rev. Ralph Arthur, president of Ferrum Junior College.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the gift of an honorary life membership in the W. S. C. S. to Mrs. Phelps by the District. Mrs. Phelps has been District president for six years and for 25 years has been on the Executive Comittee of the Woman's Missionary Society and its successor, the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Among the officers of the W. S. C. S. attending from Appomattox, beside those already mentioned, was Mrs. F. F. Carr, vice president.

COMMENT ON SPORTS

By Pete Fritchie

Washington.- Should Ray Robinson take on Carmen Basilio one more time? That's the question dogging the boxing world and Robinson's entourage. It's a good one.

As yet, Carmen Basilio and his camp are not squawking too loudly about a return bout. Sugar Ray doesn't have to agree to one. He has said that he might fight Carmen again. But there was nothing in their last fight contract requiring Robinson to sign for a third meeting.

Homemakers Items

Save leftover slivers of soap in a jar. When the jar is half filled, add boiling water to make a jelly. It will come in handy for lots of pre-treating and light laundering.

If you've added too much bluing to your wash, cheer up. Just rinse the clothes in clear water to which you have added a little vinegar.

Stockings won't get tangled on an outside clothesline on a windy day if you drop one or two marbles in each stocking before hanging out to dry. The marbles will provide enough weight to stop the wind from tangling the hose but not enough to pull the stockings out of shape.

A reel ironing short cut is yours if you hang on one line all clothes to be ironed. When they're dry, sprinkle with fine-spray garden hose, all at once.

To iron embroidery properly, turn it face down on a turkish towel, then press on the wrong side. Brings out the depth instead of flattening it. Use the same method for braided trimming.

To give a professional look to your tablecloths, press the center crease only. All other folds are best made by hand, since ironed creases don't lie flat on the table.

About The Home

By Frances Dell

Did you know that it is possible and perfectly safe to dye your brown lawn green? In fact, one turf-grass specialist tells us green dyes for dormant lawns may find a permanent place in turf-grass management.

Many different colorants from the chemical industry have been tested. Most gave good coloring to brown grass for as long as two weeks after aplication. Several kept their color for as long as eight weeks.

All the colorants tested showed very little rub-off after they dried.

There are several points about artificially colored grass that must be kept in mind:

(1) Grass must be given water during periods of little rain, even though it looks fresh and green.

(2) Use a test patch to tell the exact color you are getting. Use just enough color to reach the desired green effect.

(3) Buy colorants made by reliable companies. So far, colorants are designed to give color—nothing more—and that is all they should claim to do.

In Fashion Now

The teenager has gone all out for the chemise silhuette. Designers tell us that never before have teenagers felt such a strong French influence in their fashions. Low waists, bloused backs, three-quarter length sleeves, open and uncluttered necklines, short skirts, all are making a big hit. These designs look better on the teenager than on any other age group. Also, teenagers have always been great for fads and here is a giant-sized one.

The new look can even be found in toddler clothes, and quite popular with mothers of children in this age group.

There are many variations of the definite chemise silhuette seen in all the important summer collections for women. Summer suits have gently sloping shoulders and easy three-quarter sleeves set low. Collars roll away from the neck. Skirts are straight and tight.

Many summer dresses have matching jackets, some develop the bloused shirt-dress, but all are slim, with wide, uncluttered necklines.

In evening wear most flowers bloom on billowing chine' taffeta, silk, or anyonember of the new sheer fabrics. The decolletage is low, but never without straps. Some designs literally wind round the body.

Bias cuts and shadow-fitting looped panels in chiffon or nylon are news.

Health and Beauty

It is easy to take good health for granted and fail to appreciate the great gift that it is. Good health is certainly our most prized possession, because without it we could enjoy very little of life. Good health is worth taking care of.

It is true that most Americans take better care of their automobiles than they do of their bodies. We continuously overload our digestive systems and often with the wrong kind of food. We tax our nervous systems and seek relaxation in over - indulgence of alcohol in many cases. In the pursuit of a good time many people stay up until the wee hours of the morning, and rob themselves of important sleep.

Anyone who has suffered a bad spell of illness and recovered their health will do everything in their power to protect their good health.

Eyesight is one of our most important senses — many people feel that it's their most important sense. However, it is taken for granted and abused to an alarming degree. For example, we read in poor light, read in the wrong kind of light, vanity often keeps women from wearing glasses they badly need; we seldom think of eating food reported to be good for eyesight.

During the summer, particularly, we expose our eyes to strong sunlight for long periods of time, trying to get a suntan. Many of us wear glasses that do harm to our eyes.

Indiscriminate use of drops can be harmful. However, we think nothing of using a certain eyedrop that a doctor has prescribed for a friend, without consulting a doctor.

When you get into any kind of trouble with your eyes — don't delay getting in touch with your optomologist. For the lay individual it is very important to know the principal functions of the three different classifications of people dealing in optical equipment and treatment. First we will mention the medical doctor who treats eyes, operates when necessary, and fits glasses, the optomologist. Next we have the optometrist, or one who measures the powers of vision and prescribes prescription glasses. Then we have the optician, or one who makes or deals in optical goods.
